The cafe is not only a place to enjoy a cup of coffee, it is also a space - distinct from its urban environment - in which to reflect and take part in intellectual debate. Since the eighteenth century in Europe, intellectuals and artists have gathered in cafes to exchange ideas, inspirations and information that has driven the cultural agenda for Europe and the world. Without the café, would there have been a Karl Marx or a Jean-Paul Sartre? The café as an institutional site has been the subject of renewed interest amongst scholars in the past decade, and its role in the development of art, ideas and culture has been explored in some detail. However, few have investigated the ways in which cafes create a cultural and intellectual space which brings together multiple influences and intellectual practices and shapes the urban settings of which they are a part. This volume presents an international group of scholars who consider cafes as sites of intellectual discourse from across Europe during the long modern period. Drawing on literary theory, history, cultural studies and urban studies, the contributors explore the ways in which cafes have functioned and evolved at crucial moments in the histories of important cities and countries - notably Paris, Vienna and Italy. Choosing these sites allows readers to understand both the local particularities of each café while also seeing the larger cultural connections between these places. By revealing how the café operated as a unique cultural context within the urban setting, this volume demonstrates how space and ideas are connected. As our global society becomes more focused on creativity and mobility the intellectual cafes of past generations can also serve as inspiration for contemporary and future knowledge workers who will expand and develop this tradition of using and thinking in space.

* Sweet romance fantastique *Jeune trentenaire, Bettina mène une existence ordinaire en compagnie de son chat Prince. Leur routine se brise à la suite d'une agression, où il perd la vie en portant secours à sa maîtresse. Effondrée, Bettina n'envisage pas l'avenir sans son unique ami jusqu'à sa rencontre avec un inconnu... Et s'il ne s'agissait pas d'une fin, mais plutôt d'un commencement ? Extrait : "Depuis cinq ans, Prince était devenu plus qu'un animal de compagnie. Il était son unique ami, son confident, sa bouée de secours quand elle avait cru sombrer. Il l'avait même empêchée de mettre fin à ses jours. Il avait volé sur la table de nuit les médicaments qu'elle prévoyait de prendre. Ce jour-là, leur relation avait emprunté un autre chemin. Bettina avait vu en lui un ange gardien. Elle avait commencé à se confier et lui avouait le moindre de ses secrets. Elle avait foi en lui, comme s'il était capable de comprendre l'intégralité de leurs nombreux échanges. Attentif et immobile, Prince s'asseyait sur son postérieur, et durant des heures, ses grands yeux la dévisageaient. Elle avait eu la surprise de constater qu'il avait modifié son comportement et perdu son sale caractère. Le soir, il allait chercher la couverture sur l'accoudoir du canapé et la tirait avec sa gueule pour la recouvrir, puis il se blottissait contre elle. Ils passaient de longues heures l'un contre l'autre, sans rien faire qu'être ensemble. Elle avait l'impression d'être comblée et ressourcée grâce à sa présence. Jamais elle n'avait imaginé sa vie sans lui. C'était inconcevable. Elle n'existait que pour Prince et ne se sentait vivante qu'à ses côtés. Elle caressa son compagnon avec douceur.-- Ça va aller. Bientôt, tu ne souffriras plus."J'ai choisi d'aborder le mythe de la Belle et de la Bête, comme un chemin initiatique. Dans cette romance paranormale, les personnages devront se départir de leurs couches afin d'atteindre leur authenticité, d'apprendre à se suffire à eux-mêmes et de se révéler avant de pouvoir être réunis. Bonne lecture. Angélique

 Le prince Daineo di Ballanza, au grand désespoir de son père, est devenu chat. Même s'il a gardé une apparence humaine, son comportement est celui du félin, ce qui est pour le moins fâcheux. Le prince Daineo, accompagné du Professeur Gorgia et du Majordome, entreprend alors un long périple en vue d'une éventuelle guérison. Ainsi commencent les aventures peu ordinaires du prince-chat. Ce conte philosophique, publié en 1925, préfigure certains ouvrages d'Italo Calvino. A Russian Proprietor; The Death of Ivan Ilyitch, and Other Stories Routledge
 A majority of the chapters in this book were originally presented as papers at a conference held at Queen's University Belfast in September 2006. The volume explores the oral-written dynamic in the conte français/francophone, focusing on key aspects of the relationship between oral and written forms of the conte. The chapters fall into four broad thematic areas (the oral-written dynamic in early modern France; literary appropriations and transformations; postcolonial contexts; storytelling in contemporary France: linguistic strategies). Within these broad areas, some chapters deal with sources and influences (such as that of written on oral and vice versa), others with the nature of the discourse resulting from an oral-written dynamic (discourse structure, linguistic features etc.), some with the oral-written interface as it affects the definition of genre, others with the role of the 'oral' within the literary or written text (use of storytelling scenarios, the problematics inherent in transcribing/adapting the spoken word etc.). This chronological and methodological range allows us to situate the emergence of the form in socio-cultural and historical terms, and to open up debate around the role of the conte in particular geographical and political contexts: regional, national, European and postcolonial. This book contains contributions in both English and French. The White Slave, Or, The Russian Peasant Girl Musaicum Books "Westward with the Prince of Wales" by W. Douglas Newton. The Prince Misses His Princess La fosse aux ours In 1908 Canada celebrated its 300th anniversary – the tercentenary of Champlain's founding of Quebec City. In two glorious weeks of parades, ceremonies, balls, and festivities, Canadians commemorated their history in a spectacle that would not be surpassed until the centennial of 1967. The climax of the 1908 celebration was an historical pageant in which 4000 sumptuously costumed citizens re-enacted classic events in Canada's history.

Canada's leading painters were also there to capture these memorable scenes for posterity. The past was being celebrated, but with the present and the future in mind. In The Art of Nation-Building, H.V. Nelles uses contemporary literary techniques to convey the scope, colour, and intensity of the tercentenary from various perspectives. Drawing on the intimate diaries and letters of leading social and political figures, he leads us behind the scenes, disclosing the politics of memory, the theatrics of history, and the making of a modern monarchy. Nelles reveals what we actually do when we commemorate, how we use the past, and the multivocal character of mass celebration. This richly illustrated, thought-provoking interpretation of public celebrations offers a novel perspective on Quebec and on the upcoming celebration of the millennium. From killing the Crown Prince, saving the Prince of Liang to curing plagues, she sheds her skin as a flinching little maiden and evolves into a strong lady, capable of standing by his side.. "If you sneak off again, I will cut off your short little legs. What Princess Consort would run about wildly with a child in her belly?" "Jiangdong is infested with a plague. Naturally, as a government physician, I have to go. If you stop me, the epidemic will make its way to the capital." The Prince Regent scooped the long-winded woman into his strong arms and carried her back home. Hmph, there are plenty of government physicians. Why would they need a pregnant woman like you tagging along? Have you confused yourself with the Buddha? Don't you remember how vicious your methods were that year?
