York Time, USA Today, San Francisco Chronicle, NPR, Esquire, Newsday, and Booklist Trevor Noah’s unlikely path from apartheid South Africa to the desk of The Daily Show began with a criminal act: his birth. Trevor was born to a white Swiss father and a black Xhosa mother at a time when such a union was punishable by five years in prison. Living proof of his parents’ indiscretion, Trevor was kept mostly indoors for the earliest years of his life, bound by the extreme and often absurd measures his mother took to hide him from a government that could, at any moment, steal him away. Finally liberated by the end of South Africa’s tyrannical white rule, Trevor and his mother set forth on a grand adventure, living openly and freely and embracing the opportunities won by a centuries-long struggle. Born a Crime is the story of a mischievous young boy who grows into a restless young man as he struggles to find himself in a world where he was never supposed to exist. It is also the story of that young man's relationship with his fearless, rebellious, and fervently religious mother—his teammate, a woman determined to save her son from the cycle of poverty, violence, and abuse that would ultimately threaten her own life. The stories collected here are by turns hilarious, dramatic, and deeply affecting. Whether subsisting on caterpillars for dinner during hard times, being thrown from a moving car during an attempted kidnapping, or just trying to survive the life-and-death pitfalls of dating in high school, Trevor illuminates his curious world with an incisive wit and unflinching honesty. His stories weave together to form a moving and searingly funny portrait of a boy making his way through a damaged world in a dangerous time, armed only with a keen sense of humor and a mother's unconventional, unconditional love.

A stunning debut from a new voice in Nigerian literature: a mesmerizing, Kafkaesque narrative, informed by the life of musical superstar Fela Kuti. The day a stained brown envelope arrives from Lagos, the exiled musician Taduno knows that the time has come to return home. Arriving back in Nigeria full of hope, he soon discovers that his people no longer recognize or remember him or his music, and that his girlfriend, Lela, has disappeared, abducted by government agents. As Taduno unravels the mystery of his lost life and searches for his lost love, he must face a difficult decision: to fight for Lela or for his people. A stunning work of fiction, Taduno's Song is a heartfelt, deeply affecting tale of love, sacrifice, and courage.

"Gripping . . . Cutter Wood subverts all our expectations for the true crime genre.” —Leslie Jamison, author of The Recovering When a stolen car is recovered on the Gulf Coast of Florida, it sets off a search for a missing woman, local motel owner Sabine Musil-Buehler. Three men are named persons of interest—her husband, her boyfriend, and the man who stole the car. Then the motel is set on fire; her boyfriend flees the county; and detectives begin digging on the beach of Anna Maria Island. Author Cutter Wood was a guest at Musil-Buehler’s motel as the search for her gained momentum. Driven by his own need to understand how a relationship could spin to pieces in such a fatal fashion, he began to talk with many of the people living on Anna Maria, and then with the detectives, and finally with the man presumed to be the murderer. But there was only so much that interviews and transcripts could reveal. In trying to understand how we treat those we love, this book, like Truman Capote’s classic In Cold Blood, tells a story that exists outside documentary evidence. Wood carries the investigation of Sabine’s murder beyond the facts of the case and into his own life, crafting a tale about the dark conflicts at the heart of every relationship.

This book is a compilation of poems that this author had written since 2001. He had written on many subjects, such as inspirational verses, love and marriage, poems to our men and women serving in the military, past and present. With the world in chaos and liberalism on the upsurge, this author had expanded his writes on many controversial subjects. This author being retired and having retired from the New York State Parks Commission was a lover of nature. He wrote about the beauty of the earth and his love for gardening. Holidays had always been special family times and this author wrote about each holiday as he remembered growing up as a child and the importance of each whether fun holidays or spiritual Holy Days. This author had always liked to write puns or play around with words and phrases. Many poems of roses are red and violets are blue have come into play with his challenges in writing. This author had written many poems for the Starlite Café Internet and many times had taken the Ten Word Challenges that had been offered to him. This author enjoyed writing about his pet beagle, his neighbors and special people that had touched his life. He also enjoyed writing poems of laughter and ones that would interest children. This is a book that this author hoped would reach the hearts and minds of people of all ages.

Covers the history of the entire African continent, from prehistory to the present day. A Companion to African History embraces the diverse regions, subject matter, and disciplines of the African continent, while also providing chronological and geographical coverage of basic historical developments. Two dozen essays by leading international scholars explore the challenges facing this relatively new field of historical enquiry and present the dynamic ways in which historians and scholars from other fields such as archaeology, anthropology, political science, and economics are forging new directions in thinking and research. Comprised of six parts, the book begins with thematic approaches to African history—exploring the environment, gender and family, medical practices, and more. Section two covers Africa's early history and its pre-colonial past—early human adaptation, the emergence of kingdoms, royal power, and warring states. The third section looks at the era of the slave trade and European expansion. Part four examines the process of conquest—the discovery of diamonds and gold, military and social response, and more. Colonialism is discussed in the sixth section, with chapters on the economy transformed due to the development of agriculture and mining industries. The last section studies the continent from post World War II all the way up to modern times. Aims at capturing the enthusiasms of practicing historians, and encouraging similar passion in a new generation of scholars. Emphasizes linkages within Africa as well as between the continent and other parts of the world All chapters include significant historiographical content and suggestions for further reading Written by a global team of writers with unique backgrounds and views Features case studies with illustrative examples In a field traditionally marked by narrow specialisms, A Companion to African History is an ideal book for advanced students, researchers, historians, and scholars looking for a broad yet unique overview of African history as a whole. History of My Life Bloomsbury Publishing Your love is behind the door of your heart. Joseph Redden's "Love's A Crime" is an intricately woven mystery set at a private boarding school in the country. When two boys fight for the love of a girl, the love triangle turns deadly, and students lives unravel. Eight students go into the woods. Seven return alive. Broad Meadow's star basketball player Phillip Bishop had everything to live for. He was good looking and was quite a gifted athlete. His hard work not only paid off on the court, but he also scored academically. He was a leader. People respected him. Chad McAlpin had gotten by on his looks up to this point, and probably would for years to come. His parents had enough money to send him to the prestigious old college prep school near Lancaster, Pennsylvania. He had never had it really hard before. Things had always been given to him. He had always gotten his way. People had never said “no” to him. It came as a major shock when his girlfriend, Susan Williams, broke up with him and started dating his best friend, Phillip. Chad felt like he couldn’t win. Not only was Phillip a physical threat, athletically, he took the one person who meant the world to him. Phillip outscored, outmaneuvered and wound up with Susan. It was no secret that the boys were mad at each other. People had seen them arguing. One winter night, students go to a dance. The weather has been unusually warm for several days, prompting some kids to go to the woods not far from campus. Susan is tired of being the source of all the tension between Chad and Phillip. She urges them to patch things up, and goes back to campus with the girls. Chad and Phillip get into a fist fight. When Phillip falls and hits his head on a rock, Chad panics. He gets his friends Andy Winchester and Rudy Preston to help him push Phillip’s car off an embankment. Detective Frank Logan is a workaholic who has spent way too many nights eating dinner at his desk lately. He is so obsessed with putting criminals behind bars, his social life is lacking. His ex-girl friend, Penny, wanders in and out of his life and gets upset that he chooses a case over her. He spends so much time dealing with criminals and life threatening situations, his grandfather says he's too afraid to call her. He has just moved to the rural community of Townsend. It is a small town where everybody knows everybody's business. It took him a while to get used to the slower pace. In Philadelphia, he dealt with homicides on a daily basis. No one has been murdered in Townsend in quite a while. Handing out parking tickets is usually the only source of excitement. That is about to change, when someone discovers a red sports car half submerged in a stream. When Logan arrives on the scene, it doesn't take him long to figure out that it wasn't an accident. He finds a bloody rock and evidence that a struggle occurred in the woods. Students and faculty have various reasons for lying to him: Headmaster Jonas MacPharlan insists that it was an accident and doesn't want Logan snooping around. Basketball Coach Ian Reynolds is obsessed with winning the state championship. Witnesses overheard him arguing with Phillip a few days before the dance. Terry Dawson was once the star of the football field. When Phillip found out that he was involved in a drug operation on campus, he told the police and Terry wound up in jail. When he got out, he still held a grudge. Witnesses heard him threaten Phillip after a basketball game prior to the "accident." Susan is a troubled girl with secrets. She is emotionally fragile, especially after what happened to Phillip. Michelle Martin is overprotective of her roommate Susan. On the night Phillip died, she gave Susan a sleeping pill and went back to the dance. Her friends tell Logan that she got there an hour later than she Hero and Leander are the protagonists in a classical tale of epic but tragic love. Hero lives secluded in a tower on the European shore of the Hellespont, and Leander on the opposite side of the passage. Since they cannot hope to marry, the couple resolves to meet in secret: each night he swims across to her, guided by the light of her torch. But the time comes when a winter storm kills both the light and Leander. At dawn, Hero sees her lover's mangled body washed ashore, and so hurls herself from the tower to meet him in death. Silvia Montiglio here shows how and why this affecting story has proved to be one of the most popular and perennial mythologies in the history of the West. Discussing its singular drama, danger, pathos and eroticism, the author explores the origin of the legend and its rich and varied afterlives. She shows how it was used by Greek and Latin writers; how it developed in the Middle Ages - notably in the writings of Christine de Pizan - and Renaissance; how it inspired Byron to swim the Dardanelles; and how it has lived on in representations by artists including Rubens and Frederic Leighton.

“Whether depicting erotically charged harem intrigue or siege warfare, The Book of Saladin is an entertaining feat of revisionist storytelling” —The Sunday Times As victories mount and accolades are showered upon the great warrior Saladin, he is nearly deified. He conquers the infidel Franj, or Crusaders, and reclaims the holy city of Jerusalem while remaining true to his senses of honor, justice, and humor. When it comes time for Saladin to record his own story, he turns to a Jewish scribe. In the interlinking stories of The Book of Saladin, the mighty sultan deftly navigates the deep chasms separating Muslims, Christians, and Jews.

Invincible Horizon was inspired by real life events and fictional revelations, to entertain and educate readers beyond the different perspectives of life within the conceptual walls of our worlds. Also, to revitalize an entertaining twist; a sense of poetic participation to today's essential discourse to such topics as religion, politics and wars, birth and death, love and romance, race, migration and etc. away from the phantasmal observation of 21st century exceptionalism. This anthology drums out the many socio-political issues as well as some ethnic biases, which have cast vengeful mist, ravaging international and domestic relations; thus, it highlights some of the follies of today's society. Among the list of poems is a poetic lullaby written by the author and his family, which many parents may find it useful. The book evokes some educational qualities, particularly of colonial/post-colonial Africa with an immigrant's perspective of the West and beyond.

Turns out that reading nothing but true crime isn't exactly conducive to modern dating—and one woman is going to have to learn how to give love a chance when she's used to suspecting the worst. PhD candidate Phoebe Walsh has always been obsessed with true crime. She's even analyzing the genre in her dissertation—if she can manage to finish writing it. It's hard to find the time while she spends the summer in Florida, cleaning out her childhood home, dealing with her obnoxiously good-natured younger brother, and grappling with the complicated feelings of mourning a father she hadn't had a relationship with for years. It doesn't help that she's low-key convinced that her new neighbor, Sam Dennings, is a serial killer (he may dress business casual by day, but at night he's clearly up to something). It's not long before Phoebe realizes that Sam might be something much scarier—a genuinely nice guy who can pierce her armor to reach her vulnerable heart.
